executed: such as Books, Pamphlets, Circulars, Cards, Handbills, etc., on as good terms as at any other office.

To the friends of Temperance and the public generally we now make our appeal in behalf of this paper. The publisher feeling it a matter of importance to the interest of the Temperance cause in the District, as well as the general interest of the cause, and having been, as he conceives, Providentially placed in a situation at this time when he can mingle this interest with that of the business men, and thereby render a double service to the community, and still further open a medium of communication by which our principles may be extended far and wide, at a cheap rate, he has purchased a printing establishment, so as not only to be able to put a daily paper regularly to press, but also a weekly; and still further, be able to do any other printing the public may be pleased to have done; and he assures them that they shall have no cause of complaint. He has made arrangements by which he can devote his time to the interest of the office and the paper; and, having employed Mr. Charles W.
Fenton, who will be always on the spot, to conduct the printing, he has no doubt but that general satisfaction will be given. We shall make arrangements to have the earliest news; also the proceedings of Congress.

We wish all who are indebted for the paper up to this time to pay up, as the affairs of the tri-weekly must be closed. They will perceive that we are about to give them a better paper, double the number, at the same price.

While the "COLUMBIAN FOUNTAIN" will be devoted to the cause of Temperance, its columns will be enriched by original articles on subjects calculated to interest, instruct, and benefit its readers. It is intended, so to blend variety, amusement, and instruction, as that the various tastes of its patrons may be (as far as it is practicable) gratified.
Commerce, Literature, and Science, and every other subject of interest, not inconsistent with Temperance and morality, will receive the earnest attention of the publisher.
Nothing of a sectarian, political, or personal character will be admitted.

THE YOUNG MAN'S WAY.

TO INTELLIGENCE, RESPECTABILITY, HO-NOR AND USEFULNESS.

Dr. Franklin is a case in point. He was a specimen of firmness and decision of character from his early boyhood. Fortune did not favor him half so much as resolution.
A man who, like him, fixes his course in wisdom, and then prefers living upon saw dust puddings, rather than throw away his principles, to please a junto of his pretended friends or real patrons, need not fear the frowns of fortune. We may form some idea of his undying perseverance and firmness of purpose in the fact, that when attempting to unlock a hidden chamber of science, he daringly called fire from the clouds, duly to temper and take the rust from his key.
Tempting fashions and foolish amusements were no doubt popular in his day as well as in ours. Inducements were held out to betray young men into improprieties, and lead them to abandon their purposed course of life. In his case, however, they were happily unsuccessful. Yet young men in these days of rapid improvement think they have grown wiser than their ancestors, and hope to be great by treading in the selective paths of fashion and folly. Mistaken men—they will soon find to their mortification and fruitless regret that they have made a serious miscalculation. Figs will not grow from thistles, nor character and standing from a course of thoughtless folly.
Character so gained, if it be allowed the name, is as unlovely in the eyes of the truly wise, as it is painful and troublesome to its possessor.

Firmness and decision of purpose is conspicuous as a predominant quality of mind, in every man who has distinguished himself in the world's history. History, both sacred and profane, pays a full tribute to the truth of this remark. Noah stood almost alone in his righteous course, in the midst of a world of wickedness. Moses had the courage to take a most singular course, and dared to tread upon the tempting honors of royalty. Daniel pursued undeviatingly the pious tenor of his way, in the very teeth of a royal decree, that consigned him to the most fearful sepulchre ever opened to man. And St. Paul has perhaps never been equalled for the predominance of his excellent quality of mind. Killed he might have been, but scared or turned aside he never was. This was beyond the power of friends or foes. The former essayed it by boding prophecies and tears at Cesarea; the latter, by throwing dust in the air at Ephesus. But all was in vain, the undying firmness of the Apostle was not in the least shaken by it all.

The same unyielding disposition has characterized every distinguished man who has lived since. Columbus had to overcome a world of difficulty, in order to carry out his cherished schemes of adventurous discovery. Hundreds of men would have shrunk from the attempt, though encouraged with abundance of proffered facilities.
Yet solitary and alone, by the might of his own energy, he conquered popular opposition, and fainting not under the withering influence of royal apathy. A new world has rewarded his resolute industry, nor shall his name perish while the sun endures.

Your first point is to become intelligent, so as to discern a right from a wrong course.
This may be attained by reading history and biography, together with close observation of men and things about you. Living men are a good and profitable study. Mark their rise, progress, business, mode of life, habits, tempers, standing, and all attending circumstances. This over, choose your own course, ever bearing in mind, that like causes produce similar effects, all other things being equal. Settling it in your mind as an eternal principle, that nothing is to be gained without labor. Never expect fortune to do aught that you should do yourself. Then having laid your course, like the mariner upon the trackless deep, fix your eye upon the pole star, and don't forget your reckoning. Your bark may be a slow sailer, and at first left far behind—yet while others may be wrecked, you shall reach the port in safety and triumph. The race is not always to the swift, nor the battle won by the strong. Never should any be discouraged, because others seem naturally endowed with more firmness and decision than they. Habits are easily formed, either of weakness, or strength; of vice or virtue. Courage and the power of endurance are the product of custom as well as nature. You may make yourself effeminate and indolent, or brave and persevering. "Manual labor," says an excellent author, "is a school in which men are placed to get energy of purpose and character; a vastly more important endowment than all the learning of all the schools. They are placed, indeed, under hard masters, physical suffering and wants, the power of fearful elements, and the vicissitudes of all human things; but these stern teachers do a work which no compassionate indulgent friend could do for us; and true wisdom will bless Providence for their sharp ministry. I have great faith in hard work. I believe that difficulties are more important to the human mind than what we call assistance. Work we all must, if we mean to bring out and perfect our nature.— No business or study, which does not present obstacles, tending to the full intellect and the will is worthy of a man. I do not then desire to release the laborer from toil. This is not the elevation to be sought for him. Manual labor is a great good; but in so saying, I must be understood to speak of labor in its just proportion. It is not good when made the sole work of life. In excess it does great harm. It must be joined with higher means of improvement, or it degrades instead of exalting. Man has a various nature, which requires a variety of occupations and discipline for its growth.

Study, meditation, society, and relaxation, should be mixed up with physical toils.
Life should be an alternation of employments, so diversified as to call the whole man into action.

and Rhetoric.
Rev. M. JACOBS, A. M., Professor of Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, &c.
Rev. W. M. REYNOLDS, A. M., Professor of Latin, Mental Philosophy, &c.
M. L. STOEVEY, A. M., Professor of History and Principal of Preparatory Department.
Rev. C. A. HAY, A. M., Professor of German Language and Literature.
HERMAN HAUT, A. M., Professor of Mathematics.
WM. HENRY HARRISON, A. B., Assistant Professor of Languages.
DAVID GILBERT, M. D., Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology.
Rev. J. G. MORRIS, D. D., Lecturer on Zoology.
WM. ALAUGH, A. M., Tutor and Teacher in Preparatory Department.
H. R. GEIGER, Teacher of Writing.

The course of studies in Pennsylvania College is as extensive and substantial as that of any institution in the country. The Preparatory Department provides for instruction in all the branches of a thorough English business education, in addition to the Elements of the Mathematics and Classical Literature. The College course is arranged in the four classes usual in the institutions of this country.

The government of the students is as energetic as their circumstances seem to require. They attend at least two recitations a day, and the Faculty contemplate increasing them to three, Church and Bible Class on the Sabbath, and are visited in their rooms so frequently as to preclude the danger of any great irregularities. It is believed no institution in the United States has more exemplary young men in connexion with it. They are all required to lodge in the College edifice, special cases excepted.

The annual expenses are—for board, tuition and room rent, during the winter session $61 87 1-2; for the summer session, $41 87 1-2; washing, $10; wood, $3 00. Total expense, $116 75. Boarding can be had in town at $1 25 per week.

There are two vacations in the year, commencing on the third Thursdays of April and September; each of five weeks continuance.

The summer session will commence on Thursday, the 22d of May. The annual commencement takes place on the third Thursday in September.

The Trustees have recently made various arrangements which will increase the efficiency of the Institution. They have increased the number of Professors and provided for the most ample instruction of the students.

Professor Baugher and Haut are prepared to board boys and to exercise a special supervision over their studies and deportment, and Parents who may prefer placing their sons under their care, will be secure in regard to their proper management, under arrangements such as pertain to the family circle.

PROTECTION INSURANCE COMPANY.

HYATT, Agent for the Protection Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, offers to insure houses, mills, factories, barns, and their contents, and all other descriptions of insurable property, against loss or damage by fire. The rates of premium offered are as low as those of any other similar institution, and every man has now an opportunity, for a trifling sum, to protect himself against the ravages of this destructive element, which often in a single hour sweeps away the earnings of many years.

The course the office pursues in transacting their business, and in the adjustment and paying of losses, is prompt and liberal.

For terms of insurance, application may be made to the above named agent, at his office, opposite Brown's Hotel, in the city of Washington, who is authorized to issue policies to applicants without delay.

resources of the country and the world, and illustrate the various topics bearing upon Commerce and Commercial Literature.

It has been, and will continue to be, the aim of the Editor and Proprietor of the Merchants' Magazine, to avoid everything of a party, political, or sectional bias or bearing, in the conduct of the work—opening its pages to the free and fair discussion of antagonistic doctrines connected with the great interests of Commerce, Agriculture, Manufactures and the Currency.

Complete sets of the Merchants' Magazine, embracing 12 semi-annual volumes, of about 600 large octavo pages each, bringing it down to June, 1844, inclusive, may be obtained at the Publisher's Office, 142 Fulton street, New York, at the sub-
